Each week, the city’s award-winning TV station, Glendale 11, produces Glendale 24/7 to provide information on what’s happening throughout the city. Topics include special programs and classes at the library, parks and recreation events, city festivals, upcoming meetings, volunteer opportunities, performing arts and community happenings. The video provides dates, times and contact information in less than a minute and a half.

“We know people want quick and timely information, and Glendale 24/7 is a resource for residents to use every week to find out what’s happening in our city,” said Laurie Berg Sapp, station manager for Glendale 11 TV. “Four million people visit our websites annually, and now we’ve made it convenient for them to log on once a week, watch the short video and get a calendar update on what to do in Glendale.”
